Home

- I found it a bit hard to orient myself on the homepage. I think the homepage and What We Do sections could be integrated to a certain extent so that the homepage gives an immediate description of What PEGISUS is. Maybe the homepage could be structured with dropdowns? Here is a suggestion for consideration:

Home

- What is PEGISUS? (dropdown)
- The Challenge (dropdown)
- Our Approach (dropdown)

For the What is PEGISUS section, maybe you could combine the first paragraph of the What We Do section and the first part of the Home section (screen shots below).

Here is a draft combination of the above two sections:

What is PEGISUS

Peer Education for Gender Inclusion and Substance Use in Southern Africa (PEGISUS) is an 8-session peer-led intervention for young people aged 16 to 24 across Zambia,

Zimbabwe, and South Africa. PEGISUS integrates substance use prevention and gender equity promotion into vocational training, supporting young people to lead healthier lives today and better prepare them for the future.

The Challenge

- Keep text The Youth Challenge
- Maybe delete the Shaping Africa's Future section as this is a repeat of the program description?

Our approach

- Include text on Our Focus Areas from the What We Do section
- Include text on Our Evidence-Based Approach
- Include text Our Impact Framework
- Then maybe a sentence directing people to the What We Do Section for more information?
- The Funding Partners could go into the Our Partners section of Who We Are? Or in the What We Do Section given that it speaks more about the research?

What We Do

- Keep the three sections pictured below (the rest are incorporated into the homepage), but for the first section maybe remove "hat is PEGISUS" given that this should be covered in the homepage. It could also be renamed Program Overview (as this is the title used in the Quick Links section when you scroll to the bottom of the page).
 - o Or consider naming the entire What We Do section as Program Overview? Other ideas are Our Research, Research Overview, and Our Work. This might help differentiate this section from the homepage.
- Maybe the Clinical Trial in Progress section can say something like "read more about our study on clinicaltrials.gov", so that the reader knows where they are being directed to.

■ WHAT IS PEGISUS?

Peer Education for Gender Inclusion and Substance Use in Southern Africa

- PEGISUS is built upon two other science-backed programs: RAD-PAL to reduce alcohol and drug use and Manhood 2.0 to develop more flexible and equitable beliefs about gender.
- Importantly, we want these changes to be sustainable. To accomplish this, we deliver PEGISUS to peer groups. Young people and friends from their community take part in the program together so they can support each other as they make healthier lifestyle changes.
- Because we know how important employment is for a healthy and prosperous future, we deliver PEGISUS within vocational training programs. Vocational training programs help people learn practical job skills, making it easier to find employment. We train existing staff who work at these vocational programs in how to deliver PEGISUS.

PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

From Evidence-Based Foundations

- To develop PEGISUS, we started with two science-backed programs: RAD-PAL and Manhood 2.0.
- RAD-PAL is a substance use reduction program designed for younger South African adolescents, developed by team member Dr. Tara Carney. The program teaches behavioral skills to help young people identify their own motivation for reducing substance use, what triggers their use, and problem-solving to identify alternative behaviors outside of using substances.
- Manhood 2.0 is a gender-transformative program designed to help adolescent boys and young men develop flexible and equitable beliefs about gender. The program covers topics such as: gender and gender identity, power and relationships, understanding emotions, and overall healthy living. The program is highly interactive with hands-on activities for participants to engage with these topics.
- To turn RAD-PAL and Manhood 2.0 into PEGISUS, we solicited feedback using focus group discussions with young people living in the local community and from our youth advisory boards. We received feedback on the program's content, activities, and language to make sure it was appropriate for young people aged 16-24 and their peers.

Who We Are

- I really like the way this section is organized!

Our Team

- Our Stakeholder Partners could be changed to just Our Team?
- The small Our Teams in blue at the very top can be deleted?
- Is the little + icon for the Zambia and Zimbabwe teams a placeholder?

Our Partners

- This looks great! Consider adding funding partnerships here?
- The small Partnerships in blue at the top can be deleted?

Where we Work

- I really like this!
- When you navigate to the Where We Work page, there is a default view with all the countries highlighted (screen shot below). However, there is no way to navigate back to this view, once you select one of the countries on the left-hand side.

- The Regional Context box is a bit sparse; maybe it can be developed a bit further or otherwise deleted?

Contact

- I found this section a bit overwhelming; perhaps it can be broken down into two sections. A proposed dropdown structure:
 - Contact
 - Partner with PEGISUS
 - Send Us a Message
- Maybe The Partner with PEGISUS section could start with the existing text: Contact Us, Let's Work Together. Interested in partnering with PEGISUS, learning more about our program, or exploring research collaborations? We'd love to hear from you.
 - Then have the box on Why Partner with PEGISUS
 - Then have the Partnership Opportunities section/ Our Network of partners section (maybe these can be integrated as there is some overlap?)

- Then have a box which allows them to send a message. The information from the Get In Touch section when you scroll to the bottom of the page should also be included here.
- For the Send Us a Message section, have the message box and a short text like “Do you have a question or comment about our work? Send us a message”. Include the response time box.
